

RECORD OF INTERMENT IN FRIEND'S
GRAVEYARD AT WAYNESVILLE, OHIO
BEGINNING IN THE SOUTH CORNER OF THE WEST OR NEW PART.

(HICKSITE - QUAKER)

near Quaker Heights Nursing Home

Transcribed from 1 of 3 duplicate books (each in different hand written script, but exactly the same information).

Found in the Vaults of the Quaker Room Archives at Wilmington (Ohio) College Library - where both the Waynesville Orthodox and Hicksite Friends Meeting Records are kept.

An index card file was made of burials and placed in the Genealogical Room of the Warren County Historical Society in Lebanon, Ohio by Hazel Phillips, November, 1954. The Historical Society has recorded the burials and they are in a bound book. The stones at the cemetery were also recorded and added to their records. In parenthesis of this record will be the stone inscriptions and if there are difference in spellings. Underlining will be added if there are difference between the two records. Removal in parenthesis were recorded in the original books, usually added in different handwriting.

The burial ground belongs to the Hicksite Friends. The Warren County Historical Museum had this burial ground as the Hicksite and Orthodox Cemetery. I believe at one time though that there were separate burial grounds and that the Orthodox records are lost.

Approximately 600 names are recorded of which the earliest burial is JOHN CRAFT interred May 31, 1832. The burials were made in a row at the time of decease, not by family plots like it is today. The last two rows have some families together.

The last burials are of Georgia T. (Frame) Mendenhall interred September 30, 1946 and her husband, J. Lindley Mendenhall interred October 22, 1941. They were both later removed to another burial ground. They lived on Clarksville Road on a farm and in later years moved to Waynesville and lived in what is now the Orndorff home. Richard Michener was interred January 4, 1944.

Found in the Waynesville Box, Warren County Historical Museum, Lebanon, Ohio is the Friends' Centennial Book, 1904 (Mary L. Cook Library also has this book) 1802 was the first burial graveyard, according to Mr. Wright's article found from a clipping in Judge Keys scrapbook. The first burial was young daughter of John Griffy. In 1808 Joel Wright (schoolmaster, surveyor and dealing in buying and selling land) sold lot no. 14 in Waynesville for the purpose of a meeting place, graveyard and pasture lot for $80 to David Pugh, Benjamin Evans, Isaac Mills, David Haines, Samuel Vestal and Benjamin Hopkins, trustees of the Friends Meeting. Trustees gave bond to the sum of $10,000 that they would on request of Monthly, Quarterly or Yearly Meeting give a good and sufficient deed for the property to such person as the Meeting might direct. Later Hicksite Meeting was built. In 1819 Joel Wright sold to Noah Haines, Frederic Stanton, John Worrel, Thomas Swift and John Satterthwaite, trustees of Friends Meeting for public burying ground at Waynesville for $30.

Alexander Hopkins, 1 day old son of Benjamin and Rebecca Ward Hopkins, was interred 12-7-1812 according to Clarkson Butterworth's, "Genealogical Notes of Quaker Families in the Vicinity of Warren and Preble Counties in Ohio" prepared in 1904.

SEVEN HICKORY TOWNSHIP

No cemeteries reported.

Compiled by:
Marjorie T. Hutton
Nancy Easter Shick

The Coles County, Illinois Cemetery Location Map was compiled and researched by Marjorie T. Hutton and Nancy Easter Shick for the Coles Co., Illinois Sesquicentennial 1980 and for the Coles Co., Illinois Genealogical Society.

The project was completed in June 1980 with a personal trek to each location listed. The work of copying cemetery records was started a number of years ago by the DAR and continued by the Coles Co., Illinois Historical Society. In 1979, all of the records were given to the Coles Co., Illinois Genealogical Society where they are being completed and are being filed for public use. This file is located in the basement of the Charleston Public Library.

Even though errors may be found on this map, it is humbly presented as the first published record of its kind in Coles Co., Illinois. For those unknown burial places not listed, it is hoped that in some future time, a supplement can be printed.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE, MARCH 1975

Dear members of the W. V. G. S.:

I would like to extend to you a successful New Year, and hope you luck in your search for your ancestors. By forwarding your records to the Society we can maintain a record here for replacement of any records that might be lost, stolen, or burned. Remember---a good source of records is right in your home, and in the homes of your relatives.

Wayne Smith, President

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT

Cemeteries (Wabash Valley)
11-22-80
Dunn Cemetery

From Curtis D. Aiken, Curator Beck Chapel, 535 E. Southern Dr., Bloomington, IN 47401:

In case you receive questions concerning Dunn Cemetery, located adjacent to Beck Chapel in the center of the old area of the Indiana University Campus at Bloomington, here are facts about the cemetery:

Dunn Cemetery was established in 1830 and is still used by Dunn-related families. The last burial there was in 1969.

The cemetery is deeded to the three "Brewster" sisters, namely, Ellinor Dunn, Janet Irvin and Nancy Agness Alexander, their children, their grandchildren, their great-grandchildren, and who they may intermarry forever. Thus the cemetery belongs to the heirs forever.

These "Brewster" sisters came up through the Cumberland Gap with George Washington and volunteered and served in the Revolutionary War beside their husbands.

I am one of the heirs and also Administrator/Curator of Beck Chapel, which is unique in itself. The cemetery and chapel are near the Indiana Memorial Union Building. I invite readers who enjoy history and genealogy to visit. Most of the tombstones are still readable, and I see that they are kept erect and repaired. I also conduct free tours of the area.

Information On Small Cemeteries In Illinois, Indiana

Tri-State Trader 12-27-80

(Editor's note: In response to recent questions about cemetery locations, Curtis D. Aiken, 535 East Southern Dr., Bloomington, IN 47401, has submitted the following notes on small cemeteries of which he is aware in the southern Indiana-southeast Illinois region.)

A walled cemetery on Free Lane (end of 13th Street), on the campus of Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., was deeded to the Hooks and Cummings in the 1800's. Among names on the markers are Baughs, Hooks, Rogers, Deckards, and Cummings. The university keeps the grass mowed but the gravestones are in need of resetting.

Stucky Cemetery is located on the highway between Petersburg and Washington, Ind. The earliest date of birth is 1797, for Frederick S. Stucky, who died in 1868. The only allied family name is Malott. The most recent burial year is 1944, for Harriet Malott.

Near Benton, Ill., is a public burial ground called Baxter Cemetery, parts of which are very old. Most of the markers can be read, however.

Baxters gave this land for cemetery use in the early 1800's. It is about 10 miles east of Benton, three miles off Akin Road north, and is still used by a few families.

Persons interested in Aiken families will find the name in Knob Prairie Cemetery north of Akin Crossroads near Akin, Ill. Aikens are also buried in Brady Cemetery, a few miles directly east and in the large cemetery in the south part of Benton.

East of West Frankfort, Ill., on the Four Mile Lane is Neal Cemetery, still used by Neals and their heirs. Some Aikens who married into the Neal family are buried there, others are in Jackson Grove Cemetery.

Northeast of Benton, off Route 14, are Miller and Overture cemeteries, and directly east toward the Webbs Hill community is Phillips Cemetery (in use) and the Peter Phillips Cemetery, which is no longer used.

Back in Indiana, north of Bloomington to Martinsville on the Route 37 Bypass are the Griffith and Maxwell family cemeteries (latter on present Maxwell farm). The Maxwell plot has very old and unusual headstones and is enclosed by a quaint iron fence. I was told that the early Maxwell who homesteaded the land is buried in the cemetery there. Does a reader know if this is true?

I also would like to know if anyone knows who is buried in two graves under a large tree on the Pine Slopes Riding Stables land (north on Highway 37 near Simpson Chapel and cemetery.)

A recent booknote in TST was about Descendants of Alexander and Mary McPheeters Crawford. This reminded me of Crawford Cemetery at Parrish, Ill. (near Logan), quite large and kept up only by interested persons. There are several William Crawfords buried there. Most of the town of Parrish was destroyed by a tornado in the 1920's, accounting for several Crawford burials.

There are also Kerley and Jones cemeteries in the immediate area.

South of Bloomington on old highway 37 (three or four miles on the left) is the old Mt. Salem Cemetery in which a number of Sylvesters are buried. There are several war veterans' markers. Many headstones are broken and the cemetery is poorly kept.

The hill and cemetery are on what is called Red Hog Hill. Old stone quarries are seen directly across the highway.

Scott (Hannah Scott is known to be buried there, although the stone was not there. May have been washed away.)

* The dates for Otis do not sound just right. It was so hard to read the age. His wives would have been born: Ann, 1797; Ingabab, 1794; and Zeruiah, 1810. This Otis could have been a son of an older Otis. Otis McGullock came to Edgar Co. 1820 (Edgar Co. Hist, 1879) so he must have been older than 69 yrs unless he was the son.

There were a couple of stones face down that we could not lift and a few that were not readable.
